Precautions Taken For Princess Safety

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Plans for Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten to drive through London streets in a state coach after their wedding Nov. 20 have been cancelled as a safety precaution. It was learned today.

The Royal Family resolved upon the cancellation, qualified sources said, after being informed by the cabinet that Scotland Yard and the home office felt such a drive involved risks, "doubtless remote," which should not be taken.

They were to have made a short swing through the central part of the capital, either in an open landau or "glass" coach, after the ceremonies in Westminster Abbey, for the benefit of crowds which might not otherwise see them. Under the revised arrangements, they will return immediately to Buckingham Palace with the King and Queen.

"IT ISN'T that anyone expects anything unusual to happen," one source said, "but the police and other authorities simply do not care to take chances."

Meanwhile, special detectives and officials at Britain's ports are keeping close tabs on new arrivals so that undesirable may be prevented from reaching London. One official said the coming of so many visitors from abroad, including foreign royalty, was bound to attract international crowds and stir up the domestic issue with fanatical groups, even those with political or racial aspirations—of terrorism might try to exploit the royal visit.

The departure of Elizabeth and Philip, however, is not a matter of political or racial significance, but also—as yet unnamed—destiny, an extraordinary security measure.

Shy Away From Fight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(BUP)—Official Washington shied away today from James P. Byrnes' proposal that the United States should fight Russia if necessary to obtain an early peace treaty with Germany.

There was a scattering of senators and congressmen in town. None who could be reached would go as far as Byrnes proposed in his newly published book, "Speaking Frankly." The state department said nothing officially, but there was no sign there, either, of any enthusiasm for ousting Russia from Eastern Germany by force if the refusal to go along with peace treaty making.

A breakdown in negotiations between Swiss Canadian Company and the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO) today left settlement of Canada's meat packing strike hanging in abeyance.

The settlement of the nation-wide walkout of 14,000 workers apparently hinged on the outcome of the Swiss Canadian talks.

Canada Packers and Burns and Company—the other two of Canada's big three packers—had reached a measure of agreement on wages and other matters.

The union had refused to put the Ontario government force to the test.

Swiss negotiations were begun.

For a time early today a settlement with Swift's seemed imminent as union representatives argued with the company.

At 2:15 a.m. a union spokesman said the meeting broke up.

The union suggested a meeting be held in the afternoon.

Some 12,000 U.P.W.A. members are on strike.

He held out little hope that conciliation efforts would be successful.

He said he would not be called for no strike until Saturday.

Trade Pact Is Planned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—State Undersecretary Will Clayton resigned Wednesday and is a farewell press conference disclosed that within the next few days the United States and Britain will conclude a reciprocal trade agreement.

The agreement, which Clayton said would be a landmark in the history of U.S. trade relations, would be a reciprocal trade agreement.

Clayton said in discussing the Marshall Plan for European aid that it would be a great mistake for the United States to demand the adoption of a new kind of government as a condition of American aid.

Vermilion Meeting Asks Dominion Aid

New and enthusiastic support for a federally-aided Trans-Canada Highway by countrymen in Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Lloydminster and Edmonton through the Yellowhead Pass to the Pacific coast, was generated Wednesday at a meeting in the Provincial School of Agriculture at Vermilion.

The meeting was held under the joint sponsorship of the Trans-Canada Highway System Yellowhead Route Association and the Vermilion Board of Trade.

It was attended by 125 persons from the association itself and representatives of towns and villages all the way from North Battleford to Edmonton.

FEATURE of the gathering was a formal letter to the Hon. J. G. Bennett, Minister of Transport, from the Trans-Canada Highway System Yellowhead Route Association, headed by Kenneth Urquhart, Vermilion, as president and F. J. Richardson, also of Vermilion, as secretary.

THE EXECUTIVE of the committee was represented by representatives of boards of trade from towns and villages attending Wednesday's meeting.

Two resolutions, one urging the federal government to adopt a policy of constructing and maintaining the Trans-Canada Highway System through federal aid, and a second urging priority for the Yellowhead Highway, were unanimously endorsed.

Dr. Harry W. Taylor of Edmonton, president of the Trans-Canada Highway System Yellowhead Route Association, and J. G. Bennett, Minister of Transport, were present.

Dr. Taylor, who is also secretary of the association and James Christensen, chairman of the Trans-Canada Highway System Yellowhead Route Association, were present.

Flood of New Words Peps English Tongue

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY
CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—New words are coming and in our daily speech at a furious rate. Thousands of them—from aeroplane to superman—have been borrowed, coined or reconverted, and tossed into the burning hot-ire of the English language during the last decade.

Seemingly shifting was fast and furious in a period packed with economic gyrations, scientific advances, war, peace, new products, pleasures and a pursuit. New words spawned new expressions. From the word mints came terms like strobine, tect, escapism, can-bop, gronicle, tripbush.

NEW WORDS, and words put to new uses, are catalogued by William Russell, chairman of the research committee on new words of the American Dialect Society. He lists 22 pages of them in "The Eventful Year," "Encyclopedia Britannica's newly published history of the 1937-1940 span.

Muscle fanatics hired in with a load of five talk about boogie, woogle, groovetuck, schmale and be-bop.

Purists winced at terms like junk and smooching, but it was stinky hubbub about boogie, cats and jitterbug.

Canadian Link Ends As Regiment Disbanded

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Oct. 18.—(CP)—A British line unit closely linked with the history of the Maritime Provinces has been disbanded at Sheffield, England, ending 172 years of service.

The Second Battalion York and Lancaster Regiment was originally recruited among local colonists as the Young Royal Highland Emigrants in the Maritimes, New York and Newfoundland, where the first American revolution shots were fired in 1775.

Generally known as the Royal Emigrants, their ranks were filled by some of early settlers and veterans recruited to the colonies. They garrisoned New Brunswick and Nova Scotia during the revolution, later settled in the Maritimes, Quebec and Ontario, and were ancestors of many well-known families still living in Eastern Canada.

OF THE BRITISH line regiments raised in the American colonies, the King's Royal Rifle Corps is the only active fighting force remaining, notes G. Harold Mackham, a Saint John student of provincial history.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Thomas Gage, governor of Massachusetts and first commander-in-chief of British forces in the revolutionary war, issued an order for raising the Royal Emigrants two days before the historic battle of Bunker Hill.

Two battalions were raised, the first under Lt.-Col. Allan McLean and the second, more closely associated with New Brunswick, commanded by Maj. John Small, a veteran of the 42nd Black Watch Highlanders.

INNER CLEANLINESS COMES FIRST!

By Josephine Lowman

It is a strange fact that most people young or old are extremely choosy respecting any one action. All children and teachers of physical education know this. People who would enjoy playing the piano, or learning to execute a good tennis game, win or lose, often allow the fact that they feel foolish or awkward when they start, to rob them of great pleasure. This is certainly true of women people and as much, or more so, of older ones. It is almost impossible to teach a middle-aged man or woman into learning any new sport or skill or to persuade him or her to take up a new line of study.

Yet there are many refreshing examples of well-rounded individuals who enter a great variety of interests and many developed these skills in later life. Not long ago Winston Churchill had some "stunties" exhibited by the Royal Academy of Art in London. A testimonial of 71, who took in paintball as a hobby, now sells her pictures for hundreds of dollars.

"These people may have more skill on a lawn than mine or mine. However, I believe the more different activities they enter into, the more they enjoy them. There are unfortunately thousands of persons who would do just as well to play a musical instrument as to write, develop a business at home, or learn a new language, who would love it but who never get it because they feel that they are too old to learn it.

Very often, these people have to be coaxed to get into some condition of the mind. Sometimes, in order to get them to do it, they are given some small prize or reward. It is all a question of getting started, and if you can get them to start, you can get them to continue. I am writing this because I am a teacher of physical education and I am trying to get them to start. I am writing this because I am a teacher of physical education and I am trying to get them to start.

Why Grow Old?

Don't let the fact that you dislike being a beginner keep you from developing new talents such as the sketching being done above by Actress Marguerite Chasman. Such skills will keep you young.
